THE MASONS IN AUGUSTA

Enjoyable Anniversary Meet ing Held in Greenesville.

WESTERN STATE HOSPITAL

The Board Adopts Resolutions Appresiative of the Faithful and Valuable Services of Dr. C. C. Conway, Who Died Recently.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
STAUNTON, VA.: March 14.-The Ma nons of Greenesville, this county, report that they had quite an enjoyable time a their anniversary which was held at the M. E. Church in that town on Wednesday Thursday of this week. On Wednesday evening an interesting address was delivered by the Rev. J. H. Light, of Lexington, Va., in the church. There was good music and a number of firstclass recitations. The ladies of Greenes cmss rectations. The latter of Greenes-ville held a supper in Masonic Hail on Wednesday and Thursday evening, and did a fine business, he supper consisted of cysters, meats, chocolates, ice cream, cakes, etc., all of which were served in their daintiest styles, and by attractive young ladies. On Tuesday evening the Board of Di-cakes, etc., all of which were served in their daintiest styles, and by attractive young ladies.

On Tuesday evening the Board of Directors of the Western State Hospital met in the hull at the hospital. It was a caffed meeting and for the purpose of discussing and settling the coal contracts, which it reems there has been some conflict in. Resolutions of appreciation and rewret were read and adopted in the metalogy of Dr. C. C. Conway, who was a faithful member of the board, and who, up to his death, proved himself an ideal director. Dr. Conway was an earnest worker, and it was a rare thing for him to miss a meeting of the board, and he often attended there meetings when his health was so bad that he was hardly able to get here.

After the meeting the board made a tour of inspection of the buildings and wards, with which they all seemed picased and so expressed themselves. After this inspection the members were served with a bounteous dinner at the hospital.

FISHIER-ROBERTS.

Miss Alice Roberts, of this county, was on Wednesday married to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts, of this county, was on Wednesday married to Mr. Hatrry T. Fisher, of Spring Hill. The ceremony took place at the home of L. C. Foley, and the parlors had been beautifully decorated with evergreens for the occasion. The eremony was performed by Rev. Kiracofe, pastor of Elk Run Baptist Church. The heide was attired in a tailor-mada suit of gray, with white satin waist and gloves and hat to match. The mads of honor were Miss Beatrice Foley, cousin of the bride.

After the ceremony the bridal party regaled to the hone of the proof.

Interesting programme has been arranged, the features of which will be the renderling of "Nearer, My God, to Thee," by a class of deal mutes from the Deaf and Blind Institution here, rendered in the sign language.

Messers, R. E., and S. D. Timberlake, large dry goods dealers of this city, have bought out the shee business of A. Lee Knokles, of this city, and will take charge after April 15th.

SECOND AMPUTATION,
William B. Collins, the janitor at the Staunton postolice, has suffered fro a long time with a leg that was taken off during the civil, war. His leg was first taken off about four inches above the ankle. The doctors came to the conclusion that the only way for Mr. Collins to get relief was to have his leg taken off again, and Mr. Comins has undergone the operation and had his leg taken off about three inches higher up. Mr. Collins was a member of the Staunton pollea force for a number of years.

Mrs. Dr. J. S. Sellers, of the county, who underwent an operation at Johns Hopkins, in Baltimore, has returned home much improved.

Charles Venie, aged about nineteen years, who lives near Shendun, while in the woods Monday chopping wood, on seeing a rabbit rouning near him, and the hammer got caught on a brush, discharging the gunant the elbow. Medical ald was summoned and his arm was amputated.

Mr. Charles Hequembourg and Mr. S. H. Ellerson, of the Virginia-Carollina Chemical Company, are in the city.

Hon, John W. Churchman, after wonding a few days at his home, has returned to Richmond.

Modern Financiering as Opposed to the Old Style.

THE PETER POWERS SUIT

ed for When the Weldenfelt Suit Against the Secretary of the Stock Exchange Comes Up

By John Marthol.

(Special Correspondence to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, March 14 .- Some refernce has been made from time to time to the vast business which has grown up in what is termed Wall Street, in financ ing the product of the certificate mill. It has also been intimated that the so-called captains of industry who create corpora tions ranging in size from a billion to a million are more active in their endeavor to dispose of the stock certificates to "the public" than to hold them. When there has been a sale effected it has generally been attended by the seller investing in taining or raising the quotations of the product of the certificate mill on the Stock Exchange, and to do this successfully large sums of ready money are essential. Hence the growth of trust companies and the multiplicity of banks.

The so-called "financiers" who have sprung into prominence are strange beings when compared with the old style of bankers. These latter personages were conservative, careful, loaning money or the sufficiency of the security, running no risks and seeking no great profits, They were careful in their mode of doing business and circumspect in their mode of living. The existing class challenges attention by personal expenditure, extravagance, daring and "nerve."

Everybody knows that prosperous corporations have been welded into units and that their futures have been anticipated by a bountiful supply of stock. Dropsy is the result. There are billions and tens of millions of purely fictitious values quoted as to stocks. Values which trust companies and banks have been forced to recognize and to loan upon. This water is now dripping out. It will become a cascade.

The rotten system of up to date discounts.

ter is now dripping out. It will interest a cascade.

The rotten system of up-to-date financiering, of juggled books, of "estimated profits," of stocks that are issued with no asset behind them than "net earnings after paying fixed charges," of manipulation and financial sleight-o-hand in giving values by controlling banks which are compelled to loan on worthless paper, is coming to an end. Nothing will do the country so much good and save generations yet unborn from destitution and misery as a speedy demolition of the Certificate Mill and expose the crew of bandits who without the fear of God or Man in their hearts are seeking to foist their green goods on the industrious and frugal laborer seeking to invest small savings.

The suspension of Camille Weidenfeld from the New York Stock Exchange on charges preferred by a member who had no knowledge of the facts alleged except from heresay, has attracted great attention to the methods pursued by that institution. The Peter Powers suit against the Northern Securities was termed "a strike suit;" by the counsel of the interests attacked; and the stock on which the action was brought was said to have been loaned by Weidenfeld. The attempt made by the Securities Company to discredit the action and the parties to it was successful to the degree attained so far in the litigation. Acting upon the assumption that the facts elicited were conclusive, charges were brought against Weidenfeld and the governors of the Stock Exchange acting as a court of inquiry, summoned Weidenfeld before it and granted him a hearing. The defendant was deprived of benefit of counsel and was compelled to act as his own lawyer. Although no proof was submitted, no evidence which would be admitted to record in a court of law was introduced. Weidenfeld after ten minutes deliberation was suspended for one year, Weidenfeld at once brought suit for $500,000 damages against the secretary of the Stock Exchange as an individual, and 000 damages against the secretary of the Stock Exchange as an individual, and continued his action against the North-

Before the inquest was held it was intimated to Weidenfield that he would act wisely if he would sell his seat and relire. This he refused to do. If was also intimated to him, prior to the hearing, that the decision would be against him, and that he would be suspended for one year. What the record of the proceedings before the inquest, shows all information is hearsny. But a milent fact exists, Weidenfeld standing on his rights demands in the Supreme Court a copy of the stenographic report, and this the Stock Exchange presists by counsel. The natural inference is that Weidenfeld found guilty on charges would be desirous of six-pressing the evidence and not the Exchange. However, the reverse, is the fact. The Exchange refuses; the suspended member demands full publicity.

Behind this tacit acquiesence of members to the decrees of the Board of Stock Exchange Governors there is a feeling that the personal rights of an accused member are not always in the safest hands. Governors are men, and all mortals are subject to influences. In the Weidenfeld case, Weidenfeld opposed the strongest influence on Wall Street, J. P. Morgan & Co. This great frm would reluctantly brush aside opposition if it would thereby injure an individual, yet it would do so. And it this house believed that it had been itself attacked, there is reason to believe it would not only brush aside opposition, but crush its opponent. Members of the Exchange have always asserted that the weakest member had belind him the strength of the institution. This may be so, and may not be. This will be the most interesting outcome of the personal suit of Weidenfeld in his suit for $500,000 damages.

Weidenfeld found himself a party to the suit against the Northern Securities. He is now determined to fight it up to the United States Court of Appeals. Let this be as it may. The fact is the proof will be satisfactory, however, produced. The great merger, wasse valid or it was invalid, and before millions of hard carned dollars, the dollars which represent the thrift and frugality of hard-working merchants, and manufacturers and farmers is invested, it is well to know the facts. It would seem to me, or to any business man, that corporations contemplating the varied twists and turns through which they are subjected in modern, so-called financiering, would, if they be honest, welcome the closest investigation of their incorporation, property, etc. There is no need of violent Weldenfeld found himself a party to the

Fire-Fighter's Story

How the Strongest Man in the Philadelphia Fire Department===Once the Weakest --- Gained His Strength and Health by Using Swamp=Root, the Great Kidney and Bladder Remedy.

ERE'S the story of a man who was near death's door and was | saved by using Swamp-Root.

If he came to you and said: "My friend, do you suffer with kidney trouble? Does your back ache? Do you feel bad all over and can't tell exactly what's the matter? Have you tried medicines or doctors without benefit? Are you about discouraged? Then do as I did, and get well—Use Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root! I know it will cure you."

If he did this would you believe him?

Wouldn't you, if you were a sufferer, follow his advice, knowing that he bore living, sentient, vital testimony to the wonderful virtues of this great natural remedy?

WELL, that is just what Hugo Hutt, strongest man in the Philadelphia Fire Department, hero of a hundred battles with the flames, is doing now through the medium of this newspaper.

Hugo Hutt has been connected with the Philadelphia Fire Department for the past four years. He is stationed at the engine house at Nineteenth and Callowhill Streets.

Mr. Hutt is known as the strongest man in the Fire Department and has taken many prizes at athletic tournaments for his prowess in the field of sports.

He is also an ex-sergeant of the United States Infantry, having for several years been stationed at Fort Niobrara, Neb. Mr. Hutt also served with the Sixth Pennsylvania Regiment during the Spanish-American war.

HERE is the story as he gave it to a special representative of Philadelphia's Great Newspaper, "The North American:"

"You will hardly believe it when I tell you there was a time when my body was in such a diseased condition that my relatives and friends would have, at no time, been surprised to learn of my death. It was all due to kidney trouble, for which I could secure no re lief. I was under the care of my family physician for a number of years, but he was unable to do me any good. I also consulted two noted specialists on kidney discases, but they were unable to give me more than temporary relief. I had already made application to joir the army, but was turned down on account of my land physical condition.

"I served a number of years in the army, and for the past four years I have been connected with the Philadelphia Fire Department. My work, both in the army and lighting fires in Philadelphia, has been of the most arduous, and work that I could not do, did I not have a strong physique.

Street Cleaning Commissioner Woodbury is the only departmental head who is ever seen working in his shirt sleeves. He hustles every moment of his working hours, and at times his language is as vigorous as his manner. A day or two ago he had an appointment with President W. H. Newman, of the New York Central Rallroad, Major Woodbury kept the engagement, punctually, but President Newman was not ready to see him. After waiting for about afteen minutes the Commissioner lost patience. Striding into Mr. Newman's office he said to the great rallroad head:

"What in blazes do you mean by keeping me kicking my heels outside your office after making an appointment. Damn it, sir, I'd like you to understand that I am a city official and that my time is every bit as valuable as yours." Mr. Newman appoigized.

For the past two or three years the farmers have by degrees been changing the mode of their operations, and are adopting a system bettog suited to the time. There are many reasons why this change has been so necessary, chief among these being the scarcity of labor during crop season. Often when a farmer needs laborates most they have either gone North to work, where they claim they are better paid, or are attending their religious meetings, which last about six weeks. Therefore, the crop must of necessity be slightled, and, of course, does not yield as it would have done had it been thoroughly cultivated. This year the farmers will not cultivate as much land as herefolone, but will devote their entire time and attention to a few acres.
